

RIDLEY'S,

Grand St., N. Y.

Grand St., N. Y.

CHINA DEP'T.

GENUINE DOULTON ENGLISH PORCELAIN 12-piece toilet sets, which include Stop Jar; half regular price, $4.95.

VERY BEST ENGLISH PORCELAIN 12-piece toilet sets, including Stop Jar, printed decorations in blue, brown, and peacock green; regular price $5.25, $5.95.

Leeds Ware Jardinieres. Assorted Colors.

6-inches. 7-inches. 8-inches. 9-inches.
50c. 70c. 90c. each.

ENGLISH PORCELAIN DINNER SETS, printed decorations, extra fine quality, 112 pieces, $8.75.

"ISABELLA" DINNER SET, 130 pieces, best American ware, beautifully decorated with flowers, with stippled gold edge, made expressly for our trade, great bargain, $19.50.

ENGLISH PORCELAIN TEA SETS, 56 pieces, $2.95.

Flint Glass Tumblers, 40c. Doz.

REGULAR 60c. ARTICLE.

HALL LAMP, large size, either pink or ruby globes, complete, $1.25.

LIBRARY HANGING LAMP, fitted complete with 14-inch oval shade, $1.90.

Also,

On Bargain Table,

Large lot odd CRYSTAL GLASS SUGAR BOWLS, Cream Jugs, and Spoonholders, From 4c. to 12c. Each;

One-quarter Regular Price.

PARASOLS,
UMBRELLAS.

25 FINE CHANGEABLE SILK COACHING PARASOLS, fancy handles, Paragon Frames.

$1.50; very cheap.

100 FINE TWILL SILK UMBRELLAS, with extra fine handles, Case and Tassel, $1.73; worth fully double.

1,000 FINE IMPORTED
WHITE LEGHORN HATS

VERY FASHIONABLE FOR SEASIDE AND MOUNTAIN.

CHOICE AT

48c. each, usually sold at $1.00.

EDW. RIDLEY & SONS, 309 TO 321 GRAND ST., New York.

EARLY SUMMER WEDDINGS.

Two pretty ceremonies on the shores of Long Island Yesterday.

One of the prettiest weddings of the early summer season was that of Miss Sarah Constance Weeks and Mr. Launces Vinton Hopkins, which took place at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, at the summer residence of the bride's father, Mr. John A. Weeks, at Oyster Bay. L. N. Othilia would have been more sumptuous and picturesque than the scenes on the Weeks' place and on the bay in front of it, where nearly a dozen yachts were anchored. A special train, which left Long Island and City at 1:45 o'clock, crowded with guests from New York, made the trip down in the remarkably short time of 40 minutes. Carriages were at the station to convey the guests to Mr. Weeks' place, which is one of the handsomest in that section of the island. The sloping lawn, which extends down to the waters of the bay, is dotted with gigantic elms planted by the great-grandfather of the bride.

The ceremony took place in the room in which Miss Weeks' grandmother was married, and it was beautifully decorated with flowers, including great clusters of white and American Peacock roses. The Rev. Dr. David A. Smith, rector of St. Bartholomew's Church, officiated. Miss Weeks wore a somethat plainly made gown of white satin, embellished with point lace, and a veil of the same lace, which was several inches long.

The four bridesmaids, in effective costumes of rose-colored French muslin and Leghorn hats trimmed with pink flowers, wore Miss Weeks' old necklace and a diamond bracelet. Martha Lincoln Draper, Miss Lydia Field Emery, and Miss May W. Dickey, the bride's cousins, were in white muslin, and their bridesmaids, in pretty dresses of white satin and chiffon, were: Miss Martha Pupke, Miss Anna K. Morgan, Miss Anna Raymond, Miss Isabelle Hoyt, Miss Marion Kemp, and Miss Alice Clark. The bride wore a dress of white satin and a full veil, fastened with a diamond brooch. The wedding service was performed at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, at the home of her father, corner of Nineteenth Street and the Riverside Drive.

Because of the recent death of the bridegroom's father, only relatives and a small number of intimate friends were bidden to the ceremony, and a few guests, which were to the effect that all knew Mr. Jacob for many, many years, since he was a young man, and that he had known and admired him well. The bride's father, considering Mr. Constable proposed a toast to the young couple which was drunk standing. A small boat, a yacht anchored off the point was dressed from stem to stern in bunting in honor of the event.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis have engaged passage for June 15, and expect to pass most of the summer season in Europe.

A presents received by the bride were shown to her friends at her father's house in the evening, and Friday. Among the number was a large silver punch bowl sent by Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt.

Hopkins—Clark.

The wedding of Miss Mary S. Clark, a daughter of Mr. Cyrus W. Clark, and Edward Washburn Hopkins, Professor of Sanskrit and Comparative Philology at Bryn Mawr College took place at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of her father, corner of Nineteenth Street and the Riverside Drive.

Because of the recent death of the bridegroom's father, only relatives and a small number of intimate friends were bidden to the ceremony, and a few guests, which were to the effect that all knew Mr. Jacob for many, many years, since he was a young man, and that he had known and admired him well. The bride's father, considering Mr. Constable proposed a toast to the young couple which was drunk standing. A small boat, a yacht anchored off the point was dressed from stem to stern in bunting in honor of the event.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis have engaged passage for June 15, and expect to pass most of the summer season in Europe.

A presents received by the bride were shown to her friends at her father's house in the evening, and Friday. Among the number was a large silver punch bowl sent by Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt.

Hopping—Anthon.

Miss Margaret Willett Anthon, daughter of the late Rev. Mr. Edward C. Anthon, of the First Presbyterian Church, died at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, at her home in the Bronx. She was 21 years old.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Parker Morgan in the drawing room of the bride's uncle's house, Mr. Edward Anthon, 21 West Thirty-third street. Mr. Anthon, who was his niece's godfather, was dressed in white satin and a diamond crescent-shaped veil, fastened with a diamond brooch. The bride wore a dress of white satin and a full veil, fastened with a diamond brooch. The wedding service was performed at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, at the home of her father, corner of Nineteenth Street and the Riverside Drive.

Because of the recent death of the bridegroom's father, only relatives and a small number of intimate friends were bidden to the ceremony, and a few guests, which were to the effect that all knew Mr. Jacob for many, many years, since he was a young man, and that he had known and admired him well. The bride's father, considering Mr. Constable proposed a toast to the young couple which was drunk standing. A small boat, a yacht anchored off the point was dressed from stem to stern in bunting in honor of the event.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis have engaged passage for June 15, and expect to pass most of the summer season in Europe.

A presents received by the bride were shown to her friends at her father's house in the evening, and Friday. Among the number was a large silver punch bowl sent by Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt.

Ellis—Jacob.

The marriage of Miss Emma Lawrence Jacob, a daughter of Mr. Leonard Jacob, a member of the firm of Arnold, Constable & Co., to Mr. George H. A. Ellin of England, was solemnized at noon yesterday in St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church at Glen Cove, L. I. A number of guests from this city were invited to Glen Cove on a special train, which left the Long Island Railway station at Hunter's Point at 10:30 in the morning.

At the Glen Cove station they boarded stage, which conveyed them to the church, where there was an elaborate display of flowers and plants in the chancel. The bride did not leave her father's house on East Island, a short distance from Glen Cove, for the church until the guests from town had arrived, so that there was no delay, and promptly at the noon hour Miss Jacob, accompanied by her father, entered the building, and walked up the aisle. She was attired in white satin, with a wide lace hem, and a white sash which caught up with orange ribbons. Her point applique veil, worn also by her mother, was fastened with a large diamond brooch. Her maid of honor, Miss Martha Lee, looked very pretty in a simple gown of white muslin and embroidered chiffon and a large white sash which had adorned with white plumes and ribbons.

A. E. Ellin, brother of the bridegroom, was a tall, slender youth, and his wife, Miss Clara, daughter of Charles H. Clarendon, was over and severely injured by an unknown bicyclist while she was crossing the street last evening. Her condition is precarious.

Hopping—Weeks.

Mr. Francis Laurens Vinton Hopping and Miss Sarah Weeks, the youngest daughter of John A. Weeks of Oyster Bay, were married at the home of the bride's father, in that place, yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Greer of St. Bartholomew's Church, New York.

The reception was given by the Rev. Dr. Parker Morgan in the drawing room of the bride's parents' home, Mr. Edward Anthon, 21 West Thirty-third street.

The bride was dressed in white satin and a diamond crescent-shaped veil, fastened with a diamond brooch. The bridegroom, Capt. Lincoln Cooper, late of the Mexican army, and Miss Edith Hayward were married in Brooklyn on Thursday evening by the Rev. Mr. Chadwick, at the parsonage, 620 Carlton avenue.

After the service the bride, party and their friends, who with the guests escorted them, scattering flowers along their path, down to the water, where they boarded Mr. R. Van Rossem's yacht, and then sailed away in royal style, the canons boomed, and their friends cheering from the shore. All hope this trip they will go abroad for the summer.

Ellis—Jacob.

The marriage of Miss Emma Lawrence Jacob, a daughter of Mr. Leonard Jacob, a member of the firm of Arnold, Constable & Co., to Mr. George H. A. Ellin of England, was solemnized at noon yesterday in St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church at Glen Cove, L. I. A number of guests from this city were invited to Glen Cove on a special train, which left the Long Island Railway station at Hunter's Point at 10:30 in the morning.

At the Glen Cove station they boarded stage, which conveyed them to the church, where there was an elaborate display of flowers and plants in the chancel. The bride did not leave her father's house on East Island, a short distance from Glen Cove, for the church until the guests from town had arrived, so that there was no delay, and promptly at the noon hour Miss Jacob, accompanied by her father, entered the building, and walked up the aisle. She was attired in white satin, with a wide lace hem, and a white sash which caught up with orange ribbons.

A. E. Ellin, brother of the bridegroom, was a tall, slender youth, and his wife, Miss Clara, daughter of Charles H. Clarendon, was over and severely injured by an unknown bicyclist while she was crossing the street last evening. Her condition is precarious.

Hopping—Weeks.

The marriage of Miss Emma Lawrence Jacob, a daughter of Mr. Leonard Jacob, a member of the firm of Arnold, Constable & Co., to Mr. George H. A. Ellin of England, was solemnized at noon yesterday in St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church at Glen Cove, L. I. A number of guests from this city were invited to Glen Cove on a special train, which left the Long Island Railway station at Hunter's Point at 10:30 in the morning.

At the Glen Cove station they boarded stage, which conveyed them to the church, where there was an elaborate display of flowers and plants in the chancel. The bride did not leave her father's house on East Island, a short distance from Glen Cove, for the church until the guests from town had arrived, so that there was no delay, and promptly at the noon hour Miss Jacob, accompanied by her father, entered the building, and walked up the aisle. She was attired in white satin, with a wide lace hem, and a white sash which caught up with orange ribbons.

A. E. Ellin, brother of the bridegroom, was a tall, slender youth, and his wife, Miss Clara, daughter of Charles H. Clarendon, was over and severely injured by an unknown bicyclist while she was crossing the street last evening. Her condition is precarious.

Hopping—Weeks.

The marriage of Miss Emma Lawrence Jacob, a daughter of Mr. Leonard Jacob, a member of the firm of Arnold, Constable & Co., to Mr. George H. A. Ellin of England, was solemnized at noon yesterday in St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church at Glen Cove, L. I. A number of guests from this city were invited to Glen Cove on a special train, which left the Long Island Railway station at Hunter's Point at 10:30 in the morning.

At the Glen Cove station they boarded stage, which conveyed them to the church, where there was an elaborate display of flowers and plants in the chancel. The bride did not leave her father's house on East Island, a short distance from Glen Cove, for the church until the guests from town had arrived, so that there was no delay, and promptly at the noon hour Miss Jacob, accompanied by her father, entered the building, and walked up the aisle. She was attired in white satin, with a wide lace hem, and a white sash which caught up with orange ribbons.

A. E. Ellin, brother of the bridegroom, was a tall, slender youth, and his wife, Miss Clara, daughter of Charles H. Clarendon, was over and severely injured by an unknown bicyclist while she was crossing the street last evening. Her condition is precarious.

Hopping—Weeks.

The marriage of Miss Emma Lawrence Jacob, a daughter of Mr. Leonard Jacob, a member of the firm of Arnold, Constable & Co., to Mr. George H. A. Ellin of England, was solemnized at noon yesterday in St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church at Glen Cove, L. I. A number of guests from this city were invited to Glen Cove on a special train, which left the Long Island Railway station at Hunter's Point at 10:30 in the morning.

At the Glen Cove station they boarded stage, which conveyed them to the church, where there was an elaborate display of flowers and plants in the chancel. The bride did not leave her father's house on East Island, a short distance from Glen Cove, for the church until the guests from town had arrived, so that there was no delay, and promptly at the noon hour Miss Jacob, accompanied by her father, entered the building, and walked up the aisle. She was attired in white satin, with a wide lace hem, and a white sash which caught up with orange ribbons.

A. E. Ellin, brother of the bridegroom, was a tall, slender youth, and his wife, Miss Clara, daughter of Charles H. Clarendon, was over and severely injured by an unknown bicyclist while she was crossing the street last evening. Her condition is precarious.

Hopping—Weeks.

The marriage of Miss Emma Lawrence Jacob, a daughter of Mr. Leonard Jacob, a member of the firm of Arnold, Constable & Co., to Mr. George H. A. Ellin of England, was solemnized at noon yesterday in St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church at Glen Cove, L. I. A number of guests from this city were invited to Glen Cove on a special train, which left the Long Island Railway station at Hunter's Point at 10:30 in the morning.

At the Glen Cove station they boarded stage, which conveyed them to the church, where there was an elaborate display of flowers and plants in the chancel. The bride did not leave her father's house on East Island, a short distance from Glen Cove, for the church until the guests from town had arrived, so that there was no delay, and promptly at the noon hour Miss Jacob, accompanied by her father, entered the building, and walked up the aisle. She was attired in white satin, with a wide lace hem, and a white sash which caught up with orange ribbons.

A. E. Ellin, brother of the bridegroom, was a tall, slender youth, and his wife, Miss Clara, daughter of Charles H. Clarendon, was over and severely injured by an unknown bicyclist while she was crossing the street last evening. Her condition is precarious.

Hopping—Weeks.

The marriage of Miss Emma Lawrence Jacob, a daughter of Mr. Leonard Jacob, a member of the firm of Arnold, Constable & Co., to Mr. George H. A. Ellin of England, was solemnized at noon yesterday in St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church at Glen Cove, L. I. A number of guests from this city were invited to Glen Cove on a special train, which left the Long Island Railway station at Hunter's Point at 10:30 in the morning.

At the Glen Cove station they boarded stage, which conveyed them to the church, where there was an elaborate display of flowers and plants in the chancel. The bride did not leave her father's house on East Island, a short distance from Glen Cove, for the church until the guests from town had arrived, so that there was no delay, and promptly at the noon hour Miss Jacob, accompanied by her father, entered the building, and walked up the aisle. She was attired in white satin, with a wide lace hem, and a white sash which caught up with orange ribbons.

A. E. Ellin, brother of the bridegroom, was a tall, slender youth, and his wife, Miss Clara, daughter of Charles H. Clarendon, was over and severely injured by an unknown bicyclist while she was crossing the street last evening. Her condition is precarious.

Hopping—Weeks.

The marriage of Miss Emma Lawrence Jacob, a daughter of Mr. Leonard Jacob, a member of the firm of Arnold, Constable & Co., to Mr. George H. A. Ellin of England, was solemnized at noon yesterday in St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church at Glen Cove, L. I. A number of guests from this city were invited to Glen Cove on a special train, which left the Long Island Railway station at Hunter's Point at 10:30 in the morning.

At the Glen Cove station they boarded stage, which conveyed them to the church, where there was an elaborate display of flowers and plants in the chancel. The bride did not leave her father's house on East Island, a short distance from Glen Cove, for the church until the guests from town had arrived, so that there was no delay, and promptly at the noon hour Miss Jacob, accompanied by her father, entered the building, and walked up the aisle. She was attired in white satin, with a wide lace hem, and a white sash which caught up with orange ribbons.

A. E. Ellin, brother of the bridegroom, was a tall, slender youth, and his wife, Miss Clara, daughter of Charles H. Clarendon, was over and severely injured by an unknown bicyclist while she was crossing the street last evening. Her condition is precarious.

Hopping—Weeks.

The marriage of Miss Emma Lawrence Jacob, a daughter of Mr. Leonard Jacob, a member of the firm of Arnold, Constable & Co., to Mr. George H. A. Ellin of England, was solemnized at noon yesterday in St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church at Glen Cove, L. I. A number of guests from this city were invited to Glen Cove on a special train, which left the Long Island Railway station at Hunter's Point at 10:30 in the morning.

At the Glen Cove station they boarded stage, which conveyed them to the church, where there was an elaborate display of flowers and plants in the chancel. The bride did not leave her father's house on East Island, a short distance from Glen Cove, for the church until the guests from town had arrived, so that there was no delay, and promptly at the noon hour Miss Jacob, accompanied by her father, entered the building, and walked up the aisle. She was attired in white satin, with a wide lace hem, and a white sash which caught up with orange ribbons.

A. E. Ellin, brother of the bridegroom, was a tall, slender youth, and his wife, Miss Clara, daughter of Charles H. Clarendon, was over and severely injured by an unknown bicyclist while she was crossing the street last evening. Her condition is precarious.

Hopping—Weeks.

The marriage of Miss Emma Lawrence Jacob, a daughter of Mr. Leonard Jacob, a member of the firm of Arnold, Constable & Co., to Mr. George H. A. Ellin of England, was solemnized at noon yesterday in St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church at Glen Cove, L. I. A number of guests from this city were invited to Glen Cove on a special train, which left the Long Island Railway station at Hunter's Point at 10:30 in the morning.

At the Glen Cove station they boarded stage, which conveyed them to the church, where there was an elaborate display of flowers and plants in the chancel. The bride did not leave her father's house on East Island, a short distance from Glen Cove, for the church until the guests from town had arrived, so that there was no delay, and promptly at the noon hour Miss Jacob, accompanied by her father, entered the building, and walked up the aisle. She was attired in white satin, with a wide lace hem, and a white sash which caught up with orange ribbons.

A. E. Ellin, brother of the bridegroom, was a tall, slender youth, and his wife, Miss Clara, daughter of Charles H. Clarendon, was over and severely injured by an unknown bicyclist while she was crossing the street last evening. Her condition is precarious.

Hopping—Weeks.